4) Orange Cone Mehndi Design

This design and particular color is inspired from the very traditional and old days of the Mughal Empire. Women at that time used to put on a certain kind of mehndi on the back and front of their hands which was bright orange in color. This complimented their orange shaded lips owing to the habit of eating paan. Nowadays, it is back in fashion and a huge preference not amongst brides but amongst young girls too.

5) Glitter and Two Toned Mehndi Design

This one particular kind of mehndi is not so new and is least preferred by young brides. But, in our opinion it can look extremely gorgeous if it is worn in the best possible way. Functions like walima or engagement ceremony are best for applying this kind of mehndi as usually, the brides wear pastels and subtle colors on these occasions. There is no denying the fact that this particular design of mehndi is rather tricky and one needs to be extremely careful in making the right choice of design.
